The ladies of the Christian church, of Hubble will give an ice cream supper Saturday night, the 15th. Admission 25c.

The Hustonville base ball team walked the home boys by many scores Tuesday. The visitors were not only good players, but a nice lot of gentlemen.

This office is getting out a big lot of advertising matter for the Crab Orchard Fair. Tickets, badges and other items are in the order, and we have the job about complete.

Miss Minnie Johnson opened her school, at Hickman, Wednesday, the 5th. She is one of the best teachers in the county, always giving perfect satisfaction to parents and pupils alike.

Union Meeting.

The union services will be held in the Presbyterian church next Sunday night, at the usual hour. Bro. Tindler will preach the sermon. The meeting last Sunday evening was largely attended and it looks like the holding of these services will prove quite popular during the summer months.

A True Friend of W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U., wish to express their sympathy for the family of May or Robert Kinnaird. We have lost a true friend, one who was ever ready to aid us in word and deed. Miss Amanda Anderson, Mrs. Ed Price, Mrs. Rebecca West and Mrs. Fannie Farra, Committee.

Here's the Right Stuff.

A Texas editor hit the right spot when he said: "The sorriest fellow on the earth is the fellow who will sit around and cuss his own town. If I lived astride the north pole I would call it my home and be ready to boost it up. If I couldn't say anything nice about it, I would say my ice bill didn't come high. I would not stay in a town I had to cuss—not while the world is as big as it is now."

Everything Ready.

All the carpenters' work is done at the Fair grounds and everything in readiness for the big show. Saxton & Trost, the famous musicians, will be here with their splendid band, the show of stock will be not only large but exceptionally fine, and everything points to the most successful meeting ever held in this section of the state. The young men in charge are to be congratulated upon the splendid outlook.

An Editor's Roast.

The Kansas City Journal tells a story that is plastered all over with a big moral. According to the Journal, a merchant asked the city editor to roast the city administration for letting an itinerant peddler come in there and undersell him on goods. This is what the editor wrote: "City dads, you will hereby take notice that you are roasted for permitting peddlers to sell goods here. The merchant for whom we do this favor has his job printing done in Chicago."

Big Times in Buffalo.

The Elks will hold their annual meeting in Buffalo this year, and a merry time is in store for those who attend. The L and N Railway is the official route, and extremely low rates are offered. A special train of Pullmans will take about one hundred Elks and their friends from Lexington leaving that city Sunday, the 9th, at 2:55 p. m. Any one can go on this train, and can get advantage of the low rates. If you want a fine trip, at a very reasonable cost, call up G. M. Patterson, agent at Lancaster, and he will give you all information and particulars.

Passing of the Toll Gate.

The old toll gate regime has only been a dead letter a few years in Central Kentucky, but in the brief time free roads have been in existence the various counties which were once fairly dotted with the dreaded toll houses have demonstrated that free roads are not only feasible, but, from every standpoint—even that of economy—desirable. The passing of the toll-gate marked an error throughout the Blue grass section, and even those who fought hardest for their retention believing the turnpikes would go to the denminition bow wows, have grown to be warm advocates of free roads and could not be persuaded to return to a system which now looks to the average citizen like a relic of barbarism—Ex.

A Quick Job.

Catalogues for Lancaster Fair were turned out in less time than it takes to tell it. We had about half the time usually allowed a printing office to do such work, in fact, few offices would have tackled the job on such short notice. The delay was caused by advertisers failing to send in their copy, and other matters which caused Secretary Davidson no end of worry. Read the list of premiums and you will see that Lancaster will have the best Fair ever held in the town.

Was Well Known Here.

Many Lancaster and Garrard county people are acquainted with Elder J. C. Montgomery, who has preached in this vicinity many times, and they sympathize with him very much in the death of his oldest daughter, who was killed near Glasgow last week. The young lady was driving in a buggy with two companions, when the horse became unmanageable and ran away. The two companions escaped unhurt, but Miss Montgomery struck her head on a stone and was killed instantly. She only recently graduated from Hamilton College with high honors. The remains were interred at Stanford Tuesday.

Something About Tobacco.

The American tobaccogrower receives an average of about 10 cents a pound of striped tobacco, from which he must get his pay for the plant, his labor, his time and his investment in a farm. The United States Government gets 6 cents for every pound manufactured. The English Government gets an average of 75 cents for each pound. The Italian and Austria Government gets more than one dollar. The manufacturers make millions in profit and the dealers are well paid. The consumers pay well for the luxury, and what is the reason the producer is not well paid for the material? They will be when they understand these matters and provide themselves with means to control the market.—Ex.

Lancaster Boy Promoted.

The following from a Carlisle paper, concerns a Lancaster boy, son of Mr. E. W. Harris. His home people rejoice in his good fortune, as he certainly deserves the best in the shop.—W. H. Harris, who has been our station agent for the past fourteen years, known and liked by every one for his many traits of kindness and accommodations has accepted the station agency of the L. & N., at Paris, and goes there to take charge on the 15th of July. We do not know who will take his place here, but we are sure of one thing and that is, it will be a good long time before we get another Harris and we can recommend him to the people of Paris in both a business and social way. His family will not go with him at present.

Just Meandering.

A city girl writes: "It is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and meander with him down life's pathway," and to this the Osburne, Kan., News man replied: "Ah, yes, that is a nice thing, but when your husband meanders off and leaves you without wood and you have to meander up and down the lane pulling splinters off the fence to cook dinner; and when you meander along in the wet grass in search of the cows till your shoes are the color of rawhide and your stockings soaked; and when you meander out across twenty acres of ploughed ground with a club to drive the hogs out of the cornfield and tear your dress on the barb wire fence; when you meander back home to the house, find that the billy goat has butted the stuffing out of your child and find the old hen with forty chickens in the parlor, you'll put your hands on your hips and realize that meandering is not what it is cracked up to be."

Bids Wanted.

We, the Board of Directors of the Bryantsville and Buena Vista Turnpike Road will receive bids for the building of one mile of said road beginning at Bryantsville, all bids to be in by the 22nd of July. The profile will be found at the Bank of Bryantsville for the benefit of the bidders. The right is reserved to accept or reject all bids. J. H. Easley, Sec'y, Bryantsville, Ky.

July 5, 1905.

The services at the Methodist church Sunday evening were conducted by Rev. J. W. Simpson, Presiding Elder of the district.

In a week between passenger trains near Viley, Ky., Col. W. P. Walton, of Lexington, and Ashbrook Frank, formerly of this city were painfully but not seriously injured.

Silas Anderson, one of the hands at Marksbury's gristmill, packed and pressed a bale of No. 1 rough hemp, weighing 1,279 pounds. Who can beat this?

Fire in Bridge.

The covered bridge, on Danville pike, known as the "Henry Bruce bridge," came near being destroyed by fire Saturday. A traction engine had just pulled a thrasher through the structure and a spark lodged in the roof, possibly in a bird's nest. Neighbors saw the smoke and by heroic fighting extinguished the flames. The bridge is an old, but very good one and can do service for many years yet.

Remembered the Dead.

The Lancaster Odd Fellows held their annual decoration services Sunday afternoon. After an able, eloquent sermon by Bro. Tindler, at the Christian church, the services were resumed at the Lancaster Cemetery. A bevy of pretty girls carried the handsome floral designs, and the grave of every Odd Fellow buried was decked with roses and other sweet flowers. The Lancaster lodge is in a very prosperous condition, and the membership is constantly increasing.

Negro Killed.

Jim Buck Baughman, a negro well known in this county, was shot by another negro, named Shirley Rothwell, near the residence of Mr. John K. West on Richmond street, Tuesday. Two shots took effect and Baughman lingered until night, when he died while being removed to his home in a wagon. From what we can learn, Baughman was whipping his wife, who was a sister of Rothwell's. Both parties lived at Lowell. Baughman was known as a bad negro, while Rothwell is a peaceable man. The latter was placed in jail.

A High Class Paper.

The price of daily papers has been reduced to such a low figure that every person interested in the news of the day can afford to take one. Many people subscribe for dailies printed in some distant city, which contain absolutely nothing of interest to Kentuckians. The Kentucky State Journal, published at the Capital, is now edited by Mr. W. P. Walton, one of the best editors and brainiest men in the state. It has been enlarged, and now receives the Associated Press reports containing all the important happenings in the civilized world. The decisions of the Court of Appeals, U. S. Courts, etc., are given, as well as complete market reports. Read the ad in this issue of The Record. If you want reliable news, and the best editorials on important events, send your subscription to Mr. Walton and you will receive the Journal promptly each day.

Bank of Bryantsville.

This Bank is one year old today, and we wish to publicly thank the friends of the institution who are responsible for the steady growth during each day of the past twelve months. The bank was organized, and has been developed and conducted on the principle of conservative banking along progressive lines, and on this basis has gained steadily in strength, in scope and in the confidence of the public whose patronage has been so freely extended, and we have striven hard to prove ourselves entitled to this gratifying and remarkable growth.

The Bank of Bryantsville is as its name suggests, strictly a bank for all classes of our citizens. Persons familiar with existing conditions in Bryantsville for many years appreciate the bank which gives the small borrower and depositors, equal chances and facilities accorded the larger ones. We have devoted ourselves to a strict ly commercial business, offering depositors facilities in keeping with their balances and financial standing, not investing in either bonds, stocks or underwritings, preferring to loan our resources to our customers, and furthering the business interests of this community when the proper collateral was offered as security. It is our purpose to continue to grow both in capacity and opportunity to serve the citizens of Bryantsville, and to that end we invite your patronage, promising clients that they will enjoy every privilege usually extended by a reliable and well equipped bank, and prospective depositors are invited to write or call in person, new business being desired, and unexcelled facilities being offered.

We are prepared to extend to all customers every accommodation consistent with conservative banking and a liberal policy of management. The equipment of our banking room, including the Steel Deposit Vault, and S. & S. Door Safe, is the most complete and inviting in the State, and every person, or firm desiring the convenience, protection and courteous services of a well regulated bank are invited to favor us with their business, whether large or small; all welcome. Bryantsville, June 30, 1905.

H. T. LOGAN

In the struggle between home merchants and the city catalogue houses for local patronage there are five points that have weight with the buyer.

These are quality, price, prompt service, courteous treatment, and value to home institutions. The catalogue for patronage must "make good" on each of these points.

Careful investigation will prove that week in and out the local merchant surpasses his big city competitor in every respect.

Value to home institutions is named last but it is first in importance.

The patronage of catalogue houses is a positive detriment to home, schools, churches and all similar enterprises whose support comes so largely from the home business men. Cripple the business enterprises of your town and all the institutions for good will suffer.

Bait bargains, deceptive values and slick advertising are the chief implements of catalogue houses. They buy from the same sources as the retailer, making a special search for "seconds" which can be gotten cheaply.

These "seconds" or inferior grades, they often buy in quantities, but the goods for thousands of their orders are brought after the order is received. Their "city buyer" wagons are scurrying about every minute of the day getting these small "dabs" of stuff for individual orders.

Added to the cost of the merchandise which is on the average equal or in excess of what the retailer pays, is the necessarily high freight, express or postage charges on small shipments. (This they are trying to get taxpayers to pay for them with a parcels post.) Added to all this is an excessive selling expense, including high rentals, the tremendous cost of printing and distributing their catalogues and their general advertising.

Every citizen in or near a community, in the buying of his merchandise, gives his help and the weight of his influence to one side or the other. Individual interests and community interests are on the same side in this struggle.

Which ought to win, the catalogue house or the home merchant?

CENTRAL RECORD.

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky., July 7, 1905

Progressive Boston has established a trade school for girls, the first of its kind in the country, and it seems strange that the idea has not been worked out before. The factory girl is no new thing in American life. Most of the industries that have been taken from woman in the home have drawn her from the home to the factory. In operating textile mills, garment factories, laundries and canning plants female labor predominates and women are employed in large numbers in many other industries. Occasionally a woman rises to the dignity of a foremanship, where the labor is wholly of the gentler sex, but such promotion, where there are any men at all employed, is very rarely open to her.

We have technical and trade schools galore for men, the latter being forced in large measure by the stringent regulations of labor unions concerning apprentices, but this field in female education has heretofore been neglected. The girl has been expected to start in at very small wages and pick up a knowledge of her work in a few weeks. The new school is spoken of as an experiment, but it seems to be one foredoomed to success, since it meets an actual need.

Of course, the great stumbling block to woman's progress in the manual arts is her expectation of dropping her work at any moment to take up the responsibilities of home-making. For some years this intertender serious with the higher education of women, but parents and daughters soon learned that a good education was no bar to matrimony and gave the young woman independence, ideals and equipment that were valuable to her whether married or single. The trade school may not be productive of great ideals, but it should give the daughter of poor parents who must earn her own livelihood, equipment and independence that may prove of the highest value to her.

The town of Delavan, Wisconsin, is a model. Nobody living there would quit days to let his dooryard grow up to tall grass and weeds, or have any unsightly rubbish where it could be seen. The police out there would frown on any such performance, and would remonstrate with any such untidy citizen. There is no such yard to be seen there and the effect is most gratifying to the visitor who sees so much that is reprehensible in other towns. It does not cost anything but a little labor—and it pays better than the same effort would expend in any other direction.

The Kansas City Journal is a wide awake newspaper continually making discoveries among which is an analogical reason why a man won't take his home paper; he has invented a machine by which he can cook his dinner by the smoke from his neighbor's chimney. The same fellow sits in the back pew in church to save interest on his contributions and is always borrowing a ride to town to save the wear and tear on his own horseless. Yes, we know him. He is first cousin to the man who uses the wart on the back of his neck for a collar button, and it may be added, sneezes when his neighbor takes snuff.

Lansing, Michigan, sports a German who bought a coat which, the clothier assured him, was non-shrinkable. His statement, taken at the police station was as follows: "I told him: 'Vill he shrink?' and he ask me, 'naw; dot suit vash non-shrinkkabile.' So I puts on him und veers him mit a rain-shstorm, und py shiminy pelt; before I gits me half vay home oop comes de beileman all ouid of vind und on der run, und dell me he must come mit me und get fined life tollar for veering a bading suit on der publicstreet mid-out being at a fashionable vatering place.

A perspiring traveling man reached the station just as the train rolled away. A fat woman got there a minute later and gasping sank on to her bundles, while the man swore a blue streak, good, fat, round piratical cuss words, raising the hair off one's head. In this case swearing seemed to do good. The woman gathered up her bundles, went over to his side and said piously: "You are an entire stranger to me but I want to tell you in my feeble way how much I thank you, sir. You have expressed my feelings exactly."

Eureka Kansas Herald: Lord help the millionaire! There is Rockefeller with no appetite, Morgan so restless he can't stay long in one place; Carnegie has long been a sufferer from dyspepsia, and the rest of 'em are dying with envy because they are not as rich as the three of 'em. Blessed be bacon and beans, and health with the grace of God!

Men who misuse positions of honor and trust for gain are getting a deserved scoring from ministers, newspapers and lecturers, as well as from the honest business and working men of the country. What effect will it all have on the thick hide of the criminals, however, unless some kind of punishment be administered?

For every dollar that Mr Rockefeller's Cleveland church raised the oil magnate gives 75 cents. Last year he contributed $15,000 of the total $25,000. It is plain now why the audience at the prayer meeting the other evening laughed at and applauded a weak joke sprung by Mr Rockefeller.

In the past when the mother ruled the world, she rocked the cradle. Rocking the cradle is now done mostly by electricity. It was a sad day when the mother abdicated her throne.

"The Whole Damn Family" is the name of a new comedy produced in New York. Theatrical managers seem willing to go to almost any extreme these days in order to elevate the stage.

An Iowa man is suing for divorce, charging that there is too great a physical disparity between him and his wife, as he weighs but 96 pounds and his wife 313 pounds. It looks as though the wife ought to be given a divorce on a cross complaint.

The Chicago University professor who has figured out that with proper diet such a thing as death would be unknown, should now come forth with the proper diet. How would "immortalize" do for the name of a new health food?

Harvard gave 999 degrees this year. There must be some women in the class to account for this bargain figure.

NINA.

Mr Grover H. Ross commenced teaching our district school last Monday morning.

Brother W. T. Watson, of our town attended the Odd Fellows Decoration at Lancaster last Sunday and reports enjoyable time.

Mr Joe A. Ross sold last week to Mr J. I. Hamilton a fine young stallion at $400.

Mr W. A. Wheeler still continues poorly, is some better than he has been.

The new county road up Back Creek has been surveyed and the good people of that neighborhood can now have good roads.

BEUNA VISTA.

Miss Mary Askins is with relatives at Ambrose.

Wm Simpson sold to Taylor Burdette a heifer for $25.

Mrs Emma Phillips, of Knoxville, and brother, Mack Dunn, of Austin, Texas, visited their aunt, Mrs Margaret Robinson last week.

Word was received here last Wednesday morning of the death of Mrs Alex Askins, of Ambrose. Mrs Askins was well-known in this county, having lived here for some time. Mrs Barnett and Misses Askins attended the burial at Nicholasville, Thursday. We extend our sympathy to the grief stricken family.

Good Manners

Depend much upon good health. If the women of to-day lose in comparison with the women of Washington's day in the matter of fine manners, it may be in no small part due to the fact that most women suffer from womanly diseases. It is very hard to be polite and courteous, suave of manner and smooth of speech, when pain is thrusting its darts into the body.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which make women nervous and irritable. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It cures headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness and other ills which are the result of womanly disease.

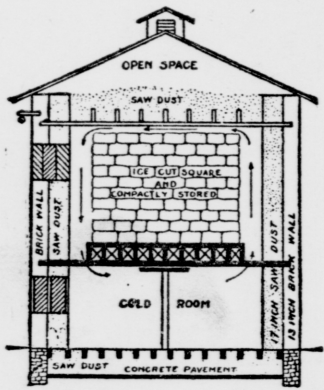

"You have my heartfelt thanks for the kind advice you sent me," writes Mrs. Florence Archer, of Eason, Macon Co., Tenn. "Words fail to express what I endured for about eight years with female trouble. The awful pain that I had to endure each month, no tongue can express. These bearing-down pains, backache, headache, distress in my stomach and sores in my breast, cramp in limbs—they have all left me and health has taken the place of these distressing troubles. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment you advised I felt like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for women's use.

HOUSE FOR ICE AND STORAGE

Plans for Building Which Is Suitable for Use on the Average Farm.

A very effective cold storage room for farm use is shown by the accompanying engraving of a house 25 feet square and same height. It is built entirely above ground and is so perfectly insulated that the cold room is held at a temperature of 35 degrees in summer.

CROSS SECTION OF ICE HOUSE.

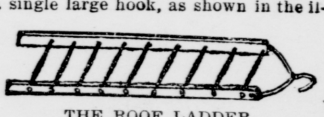

mer, while in constant use. The illustration shows the construction so well that little explanation is necessary. The cold room is lighted by two windows, which have three sets of sash, cemented tightly in place. The drainage is carried off by a series of V-shaped iron troughs running between the joists, which carry the water to one pipe, where it is conveyed outside through a trap. The troughs between the joists are fastened together so there is no trap in the floor below.

By the arrangement shown, no sawdust or other material comes in contact with the ice, and the air of the room circulates around and over it. The atmosphere of the cool room is always dry, pure and sweet—Farm and Home.

HANDY ROOF LADDER.

One That Is Easily Made and Is Indispensable in Repairing Roofs.

When making small repairs on roofs, the best kind of a ladder is one with a single large hook, as shown in the illustration.

THE ROOF LADDER.

Illustration. These can be made in the farm forge and are better than the boughten ladders. They catch easily, hold the ladder flat on the roof and will hold it either straight or slanting to one side. The ladder in this case is also homemade and the rounds are of one-half-inch iron piping.—I. A. Fiske, in Farm and Home.

Surface Dressings.

Surface dressings for meadows are becoming more and more common, because effective. Good surface dressing is barnyard manure, put on with a manure spreader. It not only acts as a mulch, but supplies considerable quantities of plant food.—Orange Judd Farmer.

The Weight of Evidence.

First Monkey—Prof. Baboon delivered quite an interesting discourse on the question: "Do the human animals think?"

Second Monkey—What is the professor's opinion?

First Monkey—Well, he doesn't know, exactly. He says they certainly do a good many things which indicate that they don't.—Puck.

Following Orders.

Mrs. Hiram Offen—Here, Bridget, see how dusty it is under the bed.

Bridget—Yes'm.

Mrs. Hiram Offen—Haven't I impressed upon you that you must sweep under the beds?

Bridget—Av course, ma'am, an' how could the dust get there if I hadn't swept it under?—Philadelphia Press.

SEASONABLE FARM NOTES.

Any kind of land that is underlaid with a quicksand subsoil is not to be relied on for the raising of crops.

About 20 pounds is the amount of alfalfa seed required per acre to give the best results on fairly good land.

As a rule, a soil that is loamy on top and clayey underneath is good farming land, provided that the drainage is good.

Cross-breeding animals does not generally yield satisfactory results, nor will cross-breeding seed plants be likely to give us any better results in the main.

Corn that has been permitted to fully mature on the stalks gives the best results when used for seed. We might expect this, as it is in accordance with nature's plan.

Do not select the ears of corn intended for seed too early this fall. The corn is increasing in substance now, and this should be allowed to go on as long as possible. Until the substance is all in the kernels they will not have attained full vitality.

FOR REMOVING BOWLDERS.

Simple Bit of Engineering That Does Away with a Lot of Laborious Digging.

Getting our bowlders from cultivated fields is a matter of no little labor, especially if the bowlder is deeply imbedded in the earth.

A large stone can be handled readily when upon the surface, but much more laborious digging is required if the bowlder is to be hauled out by "main strength" by a team.

A simple bit of engineering that will greatly help in this case is shown in the accompanying illustration. Two stout 2x4 scantlings are bolted at top and placed above bowlder as shown. Chains are fastened around bowlder and fastened to a scantling a third of the way from bottom. A long chain or rope from top of scantling to double tree of the team gives the connecting link. On lifting up team the bowlder will be started up upon the ground very easily for reasons that anyone with a mechanical eye can readily see.—O. M. O'Hair, in Agricultural Epitomist.

Keep the Farm Tools Clean.

In no other way can good, thorough work be done so quickly and easily as with tools kept in nice working order. And after you are through with them, store them away in a dry place. Have a place for every tool, and put it in its place. When you lay them away coat all steel parts with oil mixed with white lead or lard and kerosene; the latter to prevent the rats from eating off the grease. Then in the spring, when you draw out the tools, you will have no trouble in getting them to do good service.—E. L. Morris, in Epitomist.

Put Him to Sleep.

Knox—I sat down in my easy-chair last night, and picked up that new novel of Scribblers, and I didn't get to bed until four this morning.

Cox—The idea! Why, I thought it awfully tiresome.

Knox—Exactly! It was nearly four o'clock when I woke up in my chair.—Tit-Bits.

A Judge of Shoes.

Stranger—If I order shoes of you, are you sure you can make a good fit?

Cobbler—A good fit? Just you ask Mr. Richman. He always comes to me and gets his shoes made to measure.

"Who is Mr. Richman?"

"He is the owner of that big shoe factory downtown."—N. Y. Weekly.

Spaniards Emigrating to Cuba.

Out of a total of 20,211 immigrants to Cuba in the last fiscal year, 16,176 were from Spain. There were but 1,200 Americans among the immigrants, and out of the total there were but 3,500 women, as women do not seem to like Cuba—that is, other than Spanish women. One-third of the Americans and Canadians who go there are accompanied by their women folk.

TWO EXAMPLES.

The Influence Exerted by the Church Forebly Illustrated in School Teacher's Experience.

A young girl in whose home there had been no religious influence, although the parents were honest and intelligent people, went to teach in an out-of-the-way country neighborhood. It was her first school. She was alone and among strangers, but she soon discovered that that was not the greatest deprivation she was forced to suffer. She found that her patrons were illiterate, rough and quarrelsome. They were in constant litigation; feuds existed between families which gave rise to all manner of violence; cattle were maimed, fences were torn down that the crops might be destroyed by the animals that ran at large. The cross-roads grocery was the private rendezvous. Here the men assembled to drink, smoke, and play cards. There was no church within some miles, and Sunday was devoted to visiting amongst the better families and to horse racing and fox hunting amongst the worst. The children who were enrolled as pupils in the school showed all the lack of proper training and the effects of the evil with which they were constantly brought in contact. They were not only ignorant, but they had no desire to learn. Most of them held education in unconcealed contempt. With this, they were profane, disobedient, nursing a sullen envy and hatred for those whom they could not help perceiving were their superiors. They had no comprehension of respect or subordination. The life of the young teacher was almost unendurable, but she had pluck and perseverance and she would not be driven away. She taught the term to its close. But every penny of her salary had been earned many times over. She would not have complained of this, could she have felt that her earnest efforts to benefit the children had not been in vain; that all that she sought to impart by precept and example had not been counteracted by the evil in their homes. The next year she secured a school in an entirely different community. The farms there were well tilled; the houses and their surroundings were neat and comfortable. The whole face of the countryside was smiling and prosperous. When the school opened the boys and girls came, cheerful and rosy-faced, respectful, and willing and anxious to be taught. They were neatly dressed, speaking the truth and the industry of their parents. They spoke gently and deferentially, in short they were the opposite, in every respect, from the poor creatures amongst whom her work began the previous year. Her boarding place was comfortable and clean, her privacy was respected, and she was contented and happy. She wondered what could have made such a difference in two communities, both within the pale of civilization, both about the same distance from the county seat and the railroad. As she went to and from her school she saw upon a wooded knoll a little church. The yard was enclosed in a good fence; there were sheds under which the farmers' teams could be sheltered; the grass was cut and there was an air of care and well being about the place. It was this church that made the difference. It was the source of the moral and spiritual life of the neighborhood and there was not a family in the whole region that did not feel its regenerating power, for the spiritual life in its development effects the mind and the manners. Where there had been brawling ignorance, drunkenness and hatred in the churchless neighborhood, here she found charity and forbearance, care for the poor and the sick, an all-persuading atmosphere of love and ministration. No sermon could have been half so convincing. She had lived in an irreligious community, then in one where the laws of God and man were revered and respected. There was no uncertainty in her mind as to which was the better of the two; in which it was pleasanter to live. She went home soundly and permanently converted.—Advance.

Leading Up to It.

She (with an arm around his neck)—It makes you happy to know I am pleased, doesn't it, dear?

He—Why, yes.

"And you are happy when you wish—aren't you dear?"

"Why, of course."

"Well, love, I know you are going to whistle when you see this millinery bill."

—Yonkers Statesman.

Warned in Time.

Mr. Hardnut—I admit, sir, that my life has not been what it should be, but I truly and unselfishly love my daughter, and if ever I give her a moment's pain I hope I'll be made to suffer torture for it.

Old Gentleman (warningly)—Oh, you will. You don't know her.—N. Y. Weekly.

ENTERTAIN THE ENGLISH.

This American Family Could Think of Nothing Save the "Tub" Which Proves Undoing.

The two pretty American girls had met two delightful Englishmen on the way across, says a writer in Lippincott's, and had given a cordial invitation, warmly seconded by their mother, to Sir Charles and his friend to visit them at their country home. One day a message came saying the two men would arrive that afternoon. The family was thrown into a fever of excitement, and many plans of entertainment for their guests were suggested and abandoned. It was finally decided that as Englishmen are notoriously fond of a "tub," and their guests were coming directly from the train they should first be invited to take a bath. After that the hostess would rely on the inspiration of the moment. The young men arrived promptly, and after some demurring were hurried off to the bathroom. In about an hour they emerged and went immediately to their hostess, saying, "We are sorry to leave so soon, but we only came to make a call, and our train leaves in 15 minutes."

Colorado's Rapid Advance.

Colorado aroused great interest at the Purchase exposition at St. Louis. Her record is open to open the eyes of the world, for in two weeks the state was awarded seven first prizes, including one for agriculture, mining, pottery, honey, juvenile court education, precious stones and beauty of installation of exhibits.

What a Sin Is.

A little girl was called to court one day to be a witness. She was so small that the lawyers thought she might not know what an oath was. So they asked her some questions.

"Do you understand the nature of an oath?" asked a lawyer.

"Yes, sir," said the little girl.

"What is it?"

"It is a swear."

"What do you mean when you say, 'It is a swear'?"

"Well, it is that I have to tell the truth."

"If you don't tell the truth, what then?"

"That would be a sin."

"What is a sin?"

"A bad mark from God."

They let the child tell what she knew, and they all believed her.—Ram's Horn.

Duke Would Help Him.

"Yes," said the billionaire, "it is my wish to die comparatively poor."

"Oh, you dear old papa," exclaimed his fat daughter. "The duke proposed last night and I accepted him. Isn't that just your luck?"—Kansas City Star.

"Yes, but I guess the snowstorm in the third act will warm them up."—The Scene Shifter.

"DO IT TO-DAY!"

"And so think that ten months ago I looked like this! I owe it to German Syrup."

"The time-worn injunction, 'Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day,' is now generally presented in this form: 'Do it to-day!' That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.

A New Treatment

For the pores of the skin which beautifies the complexion.

Many people, especially ladies, are annoyed with dry, scaly skin, blackheads, pimples and blotches. Such ailments are generally treated with cold cream, face lotions, with hazel preparations, etc., which only afford temporary relief, if any. The trouble exists in the inactivity of the pores of the skin. If the pores are healthy and perform their duties properly the complexion will be good, unless the person is suffering from some chronic blood trouble.

A Louisville chemist has succeeded in perfecting a product known as Paracanth, which, when applied to the face and hands or any part of the body, opens the pores, removes all unnatural obstructions by stimulating the circulation and inducing perspiration. Paracanth sweeps out the trouble. It washes out the pores of the skin, makes them healthy and active, thereby giving a smooth, rosy, satin finish to the skin. This new preparation is being used very largely by complexion specialists with the greatest success, and is highly endorsed by all physicians, owing to the fact that it is pure and harmless. Paracanth can be purchased at any first-class drug store, or if your dealer does not keep it, order direct from the factory. The price is within the reach of all. Sold only in 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles. Manufactured only by The Paracanth Company, Louisville, Ky.
